

Candidate Data Handling Policy

Synthetic training material for a local demonstration. Apply the organization's approved process; this document is not legal advice.

Purpose limitation

Use candidate data only to assess the stated role and support the authorized hiring workflow.

Do not reuse profile content for unrelated analytics, model training, or other decisions without an approved purpose and process.

Remove unrelated personal details from reviewer notes when they are not needed for the stated purpose.

Data minimization

Collect only the candidate name, applied role, and evidence needed to assess documented job criteria.

Do not request or score sensitive personal details, photographs, family information, or unrelated history.

If an uploaded profile includes unrelated details, do not repeat them in the recommendation; retain only what the approved process requires.

Authorized access

Only authenticated users with an assigned recruiter or reviewer role may use the corresponding workflow functions.

Recruiters submit profiles; reviewers inspect and decide. Do not reuse another person's credentials or export data outside the approved workspace.

Report suspected unauthorized access to the designated system owner.

Secure storage

Store candidate information in the approved access-controlled system and transmit it only through its authenticated endpoints.

Use synthetic profiles for demonstrations and evaluation. Do not put real candidate data in sample prompts, logs, or public repositories.

Limit logs and diagnostic output to identifiers and information needed to troubleshoot the workflow.

Retention and deletion

Follow the organization's approved schedule and authorized holds; this prototype does not set or interpret legal retention periods.

When a record is eligible for deletion, remove it using the approved process and preserve only the audit evidence required by policy.

Escalate uncertainty about retention to the authorized records owner.
